

College Readiness

The course develops reading skills with guided independent and group activities designed to further develop language skills with an emphasis on applying skills to reading and writing.

The course introduces basic writing conventions and mechanics (definition of complete sentences and types of sentences. A basic introduction of the elements of a paragraph (topic sentence, support sentences, concluding sentence) and the principles of correct grammar usage, punctuation, and mechanics are included.

This course integrates basic reading skills an emphasis on strategies to acquire vocabulary, recognition of main ideas and supporting details, general comprehension of paragraphs.

Students at this level are challenged to be successful in other college levels courses assuming college level reading and writings skills.